commit myself to complete my scheduled work before leaving my workplace. I am eager to learning new things and accomplish new challenges and do whatever it takes to get the work done, even if I have to work long hours. To the extent that I have to work shifts, that is not a problem. I work best under pressure and

I have achieved many goals in the mining industry. I have acted as Shaft Foreman on multiple occasions. Where to other employees a specific task was impossible, I gather them around the table and discuss the addressed given task to accomplish the impossible and make it possible. I want to do more and have ambitious plans for the future.

On a personal level, I possess a dynamic work ethic, along with an ability to think outside the box and pick up new skills quickly. I embrace positive change and am transparent and open with others.

I consider myself to be a confident individual.
