What job i'm looking for? My positive points

I am a dedicated individual committed to providing the highest standard of excellence in my work. I am good at creating and implementing sales strategies to achieve and exceed targets. I work well in a team environment and always contribute to my fullest extent but can also function and perform very well independently. I excel at client service and relationship management as I believe that this is the basis of any good sales strategy. I will always go above and beyond to provide the best in class service and solutions for clients to achieve a win-win situation for the company and client. I am meticulous in my work with regards to admin and reporting and push to always meet given deadlines. I can engage and present solutions and services to clients at all levels, from one man enterprises to large board room corporates. I am very presentable and can associate and build good rapport with any audience.

All the roles that I have had in sales, account management, business development and client relationship management can be applied to almost any retail, business or corporate environment.

All my roles were part hunting / new business and part farming / consulting / relationship management and I have gained a lot of experience in both environments.

My motto in life is – I never lose, I either Win or Learn.
