Curriculum Vitae (CV)

What job i'm looking for? My positive points

I am a very driven and self-motivated individual who thrives on challenges. I believe that every problem has a solution, and every obstacle can be overcome. You will also notice, from my CV, that prior to making the decision to follow my dream of becoming an I.T specialist, I have held various positions at numerous companies, big and small. I've always started at the bottom and through my dedication to strive for excellence. I've managed to elevate my position into self-management, which allowed me to gain invaluable managerial experience under the guidance of Ricoh SA (PTY) LTD, in my opinion, one of the best leaders in South Africa. During my years with Ricoh and other companies I have worked for, I have not only been trained to perform all the duties but have performed tasks and assignments that fall outside the required scope. I have specific clients that see me as their "go to" person all the assistance they might need. My employers' only involvement with these clients relate to the billing of the clients and attending their annual general meetings. Some of these clients are also listed as references in my CV. My short-term personal goal is to move up from being a site engineer and get more responsibility within the company and my long-term goal is to become a successful I.T specialist and an extremely valuable part of my future employer's business. I am confident that I will become a valuable addition to your company in no time at all, should you consider me for a position at your company.
